RESPONSE TO NON-FINAL OFFICE ACTION MAILED MARCH 19, 2003

CLAIMS

1. (Currently Amended) A method of treating animal waste, comprising:

removing animal waste from an animal confinement area;

passing the animal waste to a holding tank;

mixing an alkaline composition with the animal waste in the holding tank to create a waste mixture;

removing ammonia from the holding tank;

transferring the waste mixture to a solids separator;

separating the waste mixture into solids and a liquid; and after separating the solids, returning the liquid to the animal confinement area for reuse; and continuously flushing the animal confinement area by directing the returned liquid through the animal confinement area.
